What Makes Edison Different?

Edison takes a customized approach to learning, providing individual attention in a small, supportive academic environment. Students build strong relationships with faculty who understand their unique learning styles and needs. Beyond academics, Edison helps students develop self-discipline, organizational skills, self-advocacy, and confidence in their ability to learn.

Edison shares a campus with Jesuit High School, and for more than 50 years, the schools have collaborated to personalize learning experiences for students across both campuses. Students from both schools take classes on the other campus and are encouraged to participate together in Jesuit athletics, theatre, faith, dances, and other co-curricular activities.

History

Founded in 1973 as The Tree of Learning, Edison became Thomas A. Edison High School in 1992 and has proudly been known as Edison High School since 2014.

Edison is committed to creating a welcoming, inclusive community where every student is respected, supported, and valued. We celebrate the diversity of our community, foster respectful dialogue and appreciation for others, and prepare students to thrive both at Edison and in the world beyond.

“Andrew was diagnosed with Dyslexia in 3rd grade. He was getting average grades, but was spending 2 to 3 hours every evening doing homework just to keep up. We were also using tutors several times a week. He felt singled out at school because his learning differences were obvious to the other students.

We were afraid that Andrew would fall through the cracks and might not even graduate from high school, let alone go to university. Edison changed his trajectory forever. He has accomplished more than we ever thought possible, thanks to Edison and their amazing staff.”

— Roxanne and Mark, parents of Edison Class of 2023 Valedictorian

“This school has really changed my life. Edison has shown me that I am smart and that I am worthy of feeling that way.”

— Isla, Class of 2026

“Going to Edison gave me the chance to overcome my challenges with dyslexia and ADHD. I went from hearing a teacher say that I would never graduate high school, to graduating with a 3.5 GPA, and challenging myself to work harder.”

— Jacob, Class of 2024

“While the financial cost was intimidating, the emotional and academic cost of staying in a traditional school was far higher. Leaving them in an environment that could not meet their needs would have cost them their future. By investing in Edison, they did not just catch up—they completely thrived socially, emotionally, and academically.”

— Bevin, mom of two (2023 & 2028) Edison students
